If your parents are ready to sell their home but the new senior housing developments don't quite fit their budget, there may be a better solution . . .

AN ACCESSORY LIVING UNIT, commonly known as an In-Law Apartment.

In order to realize the American Dream today, it's necessary in most families for both husband and wife to work. That's why having grandparents around can be an enormous help. Just having a grandparent at home to get the children on and off the school bus is a tremendous convenience for a working mother.

And for senior citizens, having their adult children close by provides many benefits, including a sense of security.

We can design an addition to your home that will not only meet the needs of the whole family, but will add substantial value to your home.
