An Art Class Offered for Preschoolers

So your preschooler wants to expand his/her art abilities? There is an eight-week class sponsored by the Prospect Board of Recreation designed for your preschooler/kindergartner, between the ages of three and five. The class will be held at the Chapel Hall building on Center Street in Prospect; the white building across from the library, between Community School and the Police Department.

The class will be offered in two convenient time slots on Wednesdays beginning September 20 through November 8. Class size is limited to 12 students in each time slot, 10 to 11 a.m. or 1 to 2 p.m.

This class will incorporate art-related children's books, fun games, science experiments, art history and projects to encourage your child to explore their imaginations and create their own masterpieces all while being exposed to the wonderful world of art. All materials presented are geared to the preschool/kindergarten level.

The instructor of the class is Patricia Mazza Vlamis, a professional photographer, an art school graduate and a Prospect mom.

The cost is $48 for Prospect residents and $53 for non-residents. All materials will be included. To sign-up or for more information, contact Pat at 758-0106 or email pmazz@snet.net
